Procession. st of the Prisoners Were Charged

With Drunkenpess or Disorderly Conduct and Few Escaped. The atmosphere of the Police Court today

howed a great improvement over pre-ious days this week. There was a marklecrease in the number of prisoners the toils, and a corresponding decreas in the number of spectators. There were twenty-five prisoners, among them being only six females. This makes a

Recently the court has heard many cases f persons for trespassing on the grass bout the city, and last night Officer Stenuse found one of the city's guests enjoying a nap in a park near the Baltimore and Potomac depot. Eugene Gilbert was the name he gave, and he was the leader of this morning's procession. A charge of

What do you know about this man?" "What do you know about this man?"
Isked the court.
"I found him asleep in the park last night," answered the officer. "He came here from Missouri, has been here two weeks, has not worked for three weeks, and has been on the tramp for a month."
"What have you to say?"
"Judge, your honor," the prisoner answered, "I'm a sick man, and am unable to work."

work."
"I'll send you down where you will get good medical treatment," said the court. "Ninety days."
Samuel Cauly plead guilty to a charge of profanity in the Smithsonian Grounds. He went down in default of fine.

A Bad Character Given Her. "A person of evil life and fame, found drunk in Willow Tree alley," read the clerk to Alice Blackburn, a colored woman. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I ain't guilty," was her response.
"This woman," said Policeman Flathers, lives in Willow Tree alley. She's a prostitute, and last night she was drunk and profane."
"I ain't no prosecute," she said, "and last night when the police came in the alley I was talking to another lady. They came over to me, and Police Barry said: I'm going to vag you." But I've got a good home, and the Lord knows I ain't no vag."

Roads of sixty days.

Bonds or sixty days.

Eettie King's face was powdered, and gave her the appearance of being ready to go to a South Washington "cake walk."

"She stopped me on the street last night,"

"ald a citizen, "and asked me where I was said a citizen, "and asked me where I was going. Just then a policeman arrested her." her."

Officer Flathers gave her a bad name, and told the court that he had arrested her at least a dozen times.

"Last night was the first time I had been in South Washington for two weeks," said Bettie, "and I was looking for Vermont avenue."

"Sixty days."

Cornelius North, a sound colored me.

"Sixty days."

Cornellus Martin, a young colored man, gave sickness as his excuse for not working. He came from South Washington and the officers said that he had been sent down, but that when he came out he refused to return to work.

"He's too sick to work," said his counsel. Other incidents in the man's career were told and Judge Taylor sent him down for thirty days for treatment.

A quiet looking little colored girl, who gave her name as Priscilla Duckett, was charged with being loud and boisterous and the judge took her personal bonds.

Hasband and Wife Both Fined.

Hasband and Wife Both Fined. lames Jones, a South Washington cold man, whose gray hairs indicated his person, were charged with having disturbed quiet of South Washington.

"What is it?"
"Me and my old man were on the stree "Me and my old man were on the street and I wanted him to go home and eat his breakfast because I was late for my service place. Some other men who were with him at the time pushed him on, and when "Is that all you did?"

"You are fined $5 each." nds to pay the fine and the wife James Dodson's profanity was more ag-ravated than the ordinary case, and for lat reason the penalty was made $10 or thirty days.

"I was in the house when the policeman caught me," said George Carter. "And so was I," added Lucy Robinson.

The colored couple had possession of an occupied house in a South Washington ey when Officer Herbert arrested them, her facts were stated about them, and they were given sixty days each.

John H. Jones did not have so to pay for his liberty, and so he was given fifteen Up for Crap Shooting. Wm. Gant of East Washington, the young colored man who was acquitted of the mur-gaged in a game of 'crap' Saturday night with some other boys, who have already been arrested and fined."

"I wasn't there," was Marshall's explanation nation.
"And I was not in the game," was what der of Peter Young, was in the procession.

Gant said.

But the officer said he could not be mistaken, and Judge Taylor fined the prisoners It or thirty days each.

In Judge Mhis court Julius Adams was charged with crueity to his wife. There was trouble in the Adams family, and Juwas trouble in the Adams family, and Julius' temper got the better of him. In a moment of passion he struck his wife, and then he was sorry for it. But the court taxed him the or thirty days.

"I desire to demand a jury trial in the case of Londin R. Thomas," said Lawyer Closs, "and ask your honor to fix a small bond. Bond in these cases has usually been fixed at $500 or $500."
"The defendant," said the judge, "can been fixed at $500 or $500."

The defendant," said the judge, "can give bond in the sum of $500."

Lawyer Closs defended a young man named William Sutton, who was enarged outh an assault on Otho Taylor.
"His mind is not exactly right," said the twyer, "but he is quiet and peaceable until Taylor denied that he had disturbed the boy, but the facts as shown by the wit-nesses did not make out a case, and the charge was dismissed. Trouble Over Children.

Fanny Manly and Catherine Murphy live in the neighborhood of sd and N streets southeast, but they never speak as they pass by. They were never good friends, but the breach between them is wider than ever. The trouble is all about the children, and Mrs. Maniey gave one of Mrs. Murphy's children a good snaking because sne said the child was profane and abusive. "But," said the court to Mrs. Manley, "you had no right to trouble the child. It was your duty to have gone to the child's nother and made complaint to her."
"I have, judge," interrupted Mrs. Manley, but she never corrects her children."
"She has never made complaint to me in her anyway."
"But I sent complaints to her by my chid," was what Mrs. Manley said.

"You are fined $6," said the judge to Mrs. anley, "but I will take your personal rids, and the next time there is any troule you had better appeal to the court for a

Joseph Ware was told that if he again troubled Thomas Cook he would have to go to jail. His personal bonds were taken. William Robinson and John Robinson falled to answer a charge of assault and reir collaterals were forfeited.
"This is the kind of a knife that Lizzie emple tried to use in the fight," said Mary ones, producing a large bread knife. Several witnesses described the fight which occurred in South Washington near the home of the woman, and Lizzie was held guity. She was fined $5 or ninety days in jail, and Rena Nash, charged on the me information, was discharged. The unfinished case of Richard Bell, whose was commenced yesterday, was concase was commenced yesterday, was con-cluded toady. Additional witnesses were called and they corroborated the testimony heard yesterday concerning his attempted use of an old dirk, and Judge Mills gave him a home in jail for three months.
